

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

FROM WHERE WE COME AND WHERE WE GO

Where do we come from and where do we go to?
We come from the future and we go back to the future.
Where do our souls live?

Our souls live in the future.

The future as the kingdom of possibilities is not only the kingdom of knowledge, but also the kingdom of our souls.

We will not be able to understand this wordplay unless we become aware of one fundamental distinguishing feature: This is the distinction between the “Future, destined to turn into Present, and the “Future, that will never become Present”.

The first is the future in which man lives and moves, the second is the future in which his soul lives and moves. The first and the second future are perpendicular to each other as perpendicular to each other are the two different types of time, which they belong to.

The future in which man lives and moves is the time of Linear Consecutive Time. The future, in which his soul moves, is the time of Perpendicular Instantaneous Simultaneous Time.

Linear Consecutive Time constantly creates Actualistic Macroscopic Future. Perpendicular Instantaneous Simultaneous Time constantly creates Possibilistic Quantum Future.

If we cannot see the souls of our dead parents and beloved; if we cannot meet with our own souls, and if the Present in which we live constantly is chasing the Future, but can never reach it because it instantly turns the Future from Future into Present – this is so because the first and the second future never meet and can never approach each other.

The reason why the alive cannot meet their souls is identical to the reason, for which the alive never meet the souls of the dead: This reason is the Movement of the Body in Linear Consecutive Time, which main feature is constantly to transform the Possibilistic Quantum Future into Actualistic macroscopic Present, and to transform the Movement of our souls into simultaneous Instantaneous Time, whose Possibilistic Quantum Future never transforms into Macroscopic Present.

The Future that never becomes Present is Quantum Possibilistic Future, whose Wave Functions never undergo Reduction.

The Future, destined to be transformed into Present, is the future, whose Wave Functions undergo Reduction.

“Future, that will never be transformed into present” is a particular part of the time, in which there is no time - timeless time. This is the future that never transforms itself into present and in fact is the eternity itself. This is Consciousness.

When we say that our souls live in the future and come from the future we mean the future that will never become present. One part of the future constantly forms and gives birth to the present – there is only one wave of possibilities that can come and become present by reduction of Wave function (see our scheme).

The cell of the present catches only one wave of Possibilistic future and transforms its Wave function into Perception function, which builds the Present and the Microscopic world. And all the rest of the waves of the Possibilistic future, which are not swollen by the cell of the Present, return to their kingdom of Omni-possibility.

The other part of the future never transforms into present. In that part of the Possibilistic Quantum Future, which transforms into Actualistic Macroscopic Actualistic Present, live and move our bodies.

In that part of Possibilistic Quantum Future, that never transforms into actualistic macro-present because it never undergoes Reduction, live and move our souls and also live and move the souls of the dead.

This is the reason why our souls live and move along with the souls of the dead and meet with them. And we, ourselves, obsessed and captured by our perceptions in the Linear Consecutive time – live and move in the Future, which constantly dies because of its touch with the Present – which “Touch”, as we just explained, is simply the way the Possibilistic Future to be turned into Actualistic Present.

When we say – The Homeland of our souls is the future – we do not mean our personal future that is ahead of us; neither the future of the others nor the future of the mankind – we mean the objective future, which owes its objectivity to the fact that it will never transform into present, and this objective future is the future of our souls.

The human souls do not live where the people go – this is the distinction between the alive and the dead; and this is the distinction between the alive and their souls, which is the distinction between the movements of the two different kinds of time, defining the two types of future.

Yet, the bitter irony is that the alive never meet with their souls because they and their souls travel in two, different perpendicular to each other times, and the two types of future never meet each other.

The familiar linear consecutive time is the one that creates Actualistic Macroscopic Future, in which travel the alive and who, through their lives, constantly transform the future into present, and so they lose the future itself and cannot approach and touch their own souls, that live inside them.

The Possibilistic Quantum Future -ever remaining unknown to the perceptions (as far as our perceptions are those Wave Functions that have undergone Reduction and have transformed into Perception Functions) but yet full of the Conceptions and giving life of the Conceptions, whose substance itself is Unreduced Wave Functions, which never undergo reduction – is the future in which live and move our immortal and transcendental souls, along with all the souls of the dead.

The irony of the universe is that our Individual souls are as transcendental and immortal as the souls of the dead are; as transcendental and immortal as our own Thoughts, Concepts and Memory are – all of them occupying the Consciousness. The substance of the Consciousness is the Future described above that never becomes Present.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]